Who let Virginia's educational system lag and permitted it to get in the present condition?

Who hold down teachers' pay as that many have left the system, young people have turned to other work and the faithful teachers who have remained at their posts have had to make large personal sacrifices?

Who permitted money—tax payers' money that should be used for the progress of the state —to pile up in idle surplus accounts and hidden "appropriations" while neglecting our school system?

Who allowed our mental hospitals to get to the point where there are only 20 doctors to take care of 11,000 patients, making recovery rare and resulting in a "penny wise-pound foolish" situation?

Who controlled the policies and finances of the state for the past two decades while this record of neglect was being written?

The Answer is simple. Most every child knows that the Byrd Machine has been running the state for more than 20 years and that the record of neglect is the record of the machine.

Who has been the man the Byrd Machine has had in control of finances for several years? Why, it is State Senator John S. Battle, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. Mr. Battle has had a life and death control over appropriations. He could have arranged finances to meet the needs of the people instead of to meet the dictates of the Byrd Machine. He could have used the people's tax money to improve schools, institutions and the general condition of the Commonwealth, instead of following the false economy of the machine and burying tax money in hidden surpluses.

What can you do about it? You can end the Byrd Machine's record of neglect and bring about progress in Virginia by electing Francis Pickens Miller as your next Governor. You have seen what the Byrd machine has done in 20 years. Virginia's public institutions can't stand much more neglect. You have your choice on August 2—It is Miller or more.

First Trans-America Railroad Marks 80th Anniversary in 1949

OGDEN, UTAH.—The governor of California swung a silver mallet at a golden spike—and missed. But few people knew that and no one really cared.

That swing, just 80 years ago, marked completion of America's first transcontinental railroad.

There was literal dancing in the streets over the country that day.

The driving of the golden spike at Promontory, Utah, was one of those great historical events that capture the imagination and hold it through succeeding generations.

The locomotives met at the point where rails from the Missouri River met those from the Pacific Ocean after one of the most epic building races of all time.

Any event 80 years ago is apt to become a bit distorted as fact mingles with legend. In the case of the golden spike ceremony, it seems that some of the facts have been dropped by the wayside and it is the legend which persists.

Actually, railroad historians and the reminiscences of persons who witnessed the event are pretty well agreed that:

(1)—Gov. Leland Stanford of California, president of the Central Pacific Railroad and the man who usually gets credit for "driving" the last spike, swung the ceremonial mallet and missed.

(2)—The man who followed him was too polite to do better than his predecessor, so he too missed. (He was Dr. Thomas C. Durant, vice president of the Union Pacific Railroad).

(3)—The spike probably couldn't have been driven, anyway. It was made from 23 $20 gold pieces and was much too soft for such treatment. Instead, it was gently tapped by many persons into a hole which had been drilled to receive it.

The word "devil means "little god."

Wolf hunting was a favorite pursuit of the ancient Britons.

For The Ladies: A Diet That Really Works

We went out visiting the other night and the ladies were talking away about weight-reducing diets. One of them had a special "15-day Hollywood diet" guaranteed to slim her down fifteen pounds' worth. Another was living on bananas and skim milk!

I might have known the subject would get the bug, too, and sure enough the other day she asks me, "Joe, what kind of a diet do you think I ought to go on?"

"Mother," I says, "the only diet I would ever recommend to anyone is simply moderation. I wouldn't trust any of those get-thin-quick diets. Simply cut down on desserts, bread, butter, sweets and fats—but when you do, even do your cutting down moderately."

From where I sit, moderation is the watchword. Moderation with food, with smoking or with the enjoyment of a friendly glass of temperate beer or ale. Actually, moderation adds to the enjoyment of just about anything.
